REINVENTING GOOD

SHOW & TELL: WHAT NOT TO LEARN IN KINDERGARTEN

All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten

All I really need to know about how to live and what to do and how to be I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate-school mountain, but there in the sandpile at Sunday School. These are the things I learned ■ Share everything. Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them. Clean up your own mess. Don't take things that aren't yours. Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody. Wash your hands before you eat. Flush. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you. Live a balanced life—learn some and think some and draw and paint and sing and dance and play and work every day some. ■ Take a nap every afternoon. ■ When you go out into the world, watch out for traffic, hold hands, and stick together. ■ Be aware of wonder. Remember the little seed in the Styrofoam cup: The roots go down and the plant goes up and nobody really knows how or why, but we are all like that. ■ Goldfish and hamsters and white mice and even the little seed in the Styrofoam cup—they all die. So do we. ■ And then remember the Dick-and-Jane books and the first word you learned—the biggest word of all—LOOK. ■ Everything you need to know is in there somewhere. The Golden Rule and love and basic sanitation. Ecology and politics and equality and sane living. ■ Take any one of those items and extrapolate it into sophisticated adult terms and apply it to your family life or your work or your government or your world and it holds true and clear and firm. Think what a better world it would be if we all—the whole world—had cookies and milk about three o'clock every afternoon and then lay down with our blankies for a nap. Or if all governments had as a basic policy to always put things back where they found them and to clean up their own mess. ■ And it is still true, no matter how old you are—when you go out into the world, it is best to hold hands and stick together.

A MIND IS A TERRIBLE THING TO WASTE.

People are born every day who could cure disease, make peace, create art, abolish injustice, end hunger.

But they'll probably never get a chance to do those things without an education.

We're educating over 45,000 students at 40 private, four-year colleges every year.

You can help, too. By sending a check for whatever you can afford.

We can't afford to waste anybody.

Go pink. Pass it on.
Support breast cancer detection.

Thanks to our customers
who proved the power
of pink by raising

$2.45 million

Great things happened with our campaign to support enhanced breast cancer detection. In 2010, TELUS raised $2.45 million from the sale of every pink TELUS phone. We donated the money to hospitals and health foundations
across Canada to purchase new digital mammography equipment. And more was raised when thousands of people on Facebook changed their profile pictures pink. Thank you.

Thanks, BC. Your contribution will help BC Women's Health purchase much-needed digital mammography machines for use in your community.
